STUDENT COUNCIL

PROFESSOR BENJAMIN L. DOW
Head, Aeronautical Engineering Department

Aeronautical Engineering has made momentous strides in the 54 years since the first flight of heavier-than-air machines. Since the Wright Brothers first airplane to today's supersonic fighters, the aircraft industry has seen many changes. Today's aircraft designers and builders work as a team. Individual engineers concentrate their effort on small phases of the overall project, resulting in a complicated but efficient design. More and more scientific knowledge is necessary to keep pace with today's advanced aircraft. The importance of basic knowledge in the fields of mathematics, physics, and mechanics is becoming more apparent. The Aeronautical Engineering Department at Indiana Technical College strives to have the student well prepared in the basic sciences before the advanced aeronautical topics are undertaken. A graduate with a B.S. degree in Aeronautical Engineering may enter many phases of the aeronautical field. The ever increasing advances in the field of aeronautics, such as the earth satellite project, will continue to offer a challenge to the engineers of the present and future.

One of the newest branches of engineering, Chemical Engineering, has advanced rapidly. Practically all industry in some stage of processing, development, or manufacturing, must depend upon men with a knowledge of chemistry. Today there are highly specialized and diversified fields such as Gas, Metallurgical, Ceramics, and Petroleum. Because of its being the basic technology underlying the development and operation of virtually all industry, Chemical Engineering will realize even greater growth in the years to come.

The development in the various branches of engineering has created new problems in the design and construction of buildings, highways, airports, and other structures. The Civil Engineer is meeting the demands of our present age with new methods and ideas. Even though Civil Engineering is the oldest of the fields of engineering, it continues to grow and develop and provide opportunities for men of vision.

Electronic Engineering is a highly specialized branch of Electrical Engineering. The importance of electronics is recognized as a field of engineering in its own right. To the Electronic Engineer is attributed outstanding development in such realms as guided missiles, radar, color television, electronic computer, radio communication, and atomic energy. The Electronic Engineering curriculum is planned to specialize a fundamental knowledge of electrical engineering to scientific application in the field of electronics.

The field of Mechanical Engineering is so broad that no man can be an authority on all of its branches. Consequently, Mechanical Engineers tend to become specialists in chosen branches. Therefore, the student is given a thorough background in the basic sciences. This field is very extensive, for practically every manufactured article requires the services of mechanical engineers both in the design of the machine on which it is made and in the production of the article on those machines in the factory.

Engineering Drawing is a descriptive graphical language used by engineers and designers throughout the world to express, develop, and record their ideas and information. Men of industry have indicated that Engineering Drawing is not only important, but absolutely necessary. Students need a thorough grounding in the fundamentals of science and communication, and should be trained early in the engineering approach for the solution of problems. They must have training in space visualization; they must develop their powers of analysis and synthesis; they must be given experience in creative thinking at the start of their college work; and their abilities to develop and record ideas must be constantly challenged.

Chemistry is one of the fundamental sciences, important both in that it underlies all phases of modern living and in its own right as a field of employment for the several hundred thousand American chemists. Its scope includes everything from process control and analysis to the "glamor" fields of nuclear science and radioactive tracer technique, biochemical research, and organic synthesis of vital drugs, plastics and explosives.

If, as has been said, "this is the atomic age," then this is the age of physics. Nuclear weapons and machines are products of the physics laboratory. Each new day finds the physicists of our nation ever widening horizons of man's knowledge. Therefore, Indiana Technical College meets the need for training in physics by offering basic and advanced courses designed to prepare a student either for direct participation in industry, or for a scientific career of the more traditional type.

Although operating with a limited number of staff members, the TECHNICIAN, official student newspaper of Indiana Technical College, has completed another successful year of publication. Publication was every three weeks during the Fall, Winter and Spring terms, with two issues being printed in the Summer term. Average circulation was 2600 copies per issue, 500 of which were sent to alumni, industry and friends of the college.

It has been inspiring to each of us to see the cooperation and effort as a team which was displayed by such a small group. The staff has had excellent leadership from the editor, Jay King, and the faculty advisor, Professor Alvin C. Steinbach. Associate Editor, Louis Lenert, promises to be well qualified to take over the editor's position when Mr. King retires. Other members of the staff include Tom Bohmer, Business Manager; Harold Treece, Assistant Editor; Glen Craig, News Editor; Mike Warren, Advertising Manager; Wil Drabenstot, Circulation Manager; Al Bjorling, Photography Editor; Typist, Robert Essig; Staff Writer, Carmon Coutinho; Larry Huff and Phil Holt, Correspondents; Sidney Barasch and Bernie Freund, Reporters.

THE TECHNICIAN STAFF

We of the staff like to feel that we have done a good job in representing the students here at Tech. It has been the object of the paper to arouse student interest where interest was lacking, to promote the school spirit and to bring the student closer to the problem he will face in his profession upon graduation. Above all other things, the interests of Indiana Technical College both locally, nationally and world-wide were kept uppermost in mind because we believe in Tech and have faith in the principles upon which it was founded. Criticism, where criticism was warranted, was intended to make Tech a better college—one which we can be proud of.

ASSOCIATION OF CIVIL ENGINEERING

The Association of Civil Engineering of Indiana Technical College is an organization of the students enrolled in the civil engineering department and the department instructors.

The club has one field trip each term, one mid-term party, a senior banquet in honor of all the seniors of the club, and an award given to the outstanding graduating senior each term.

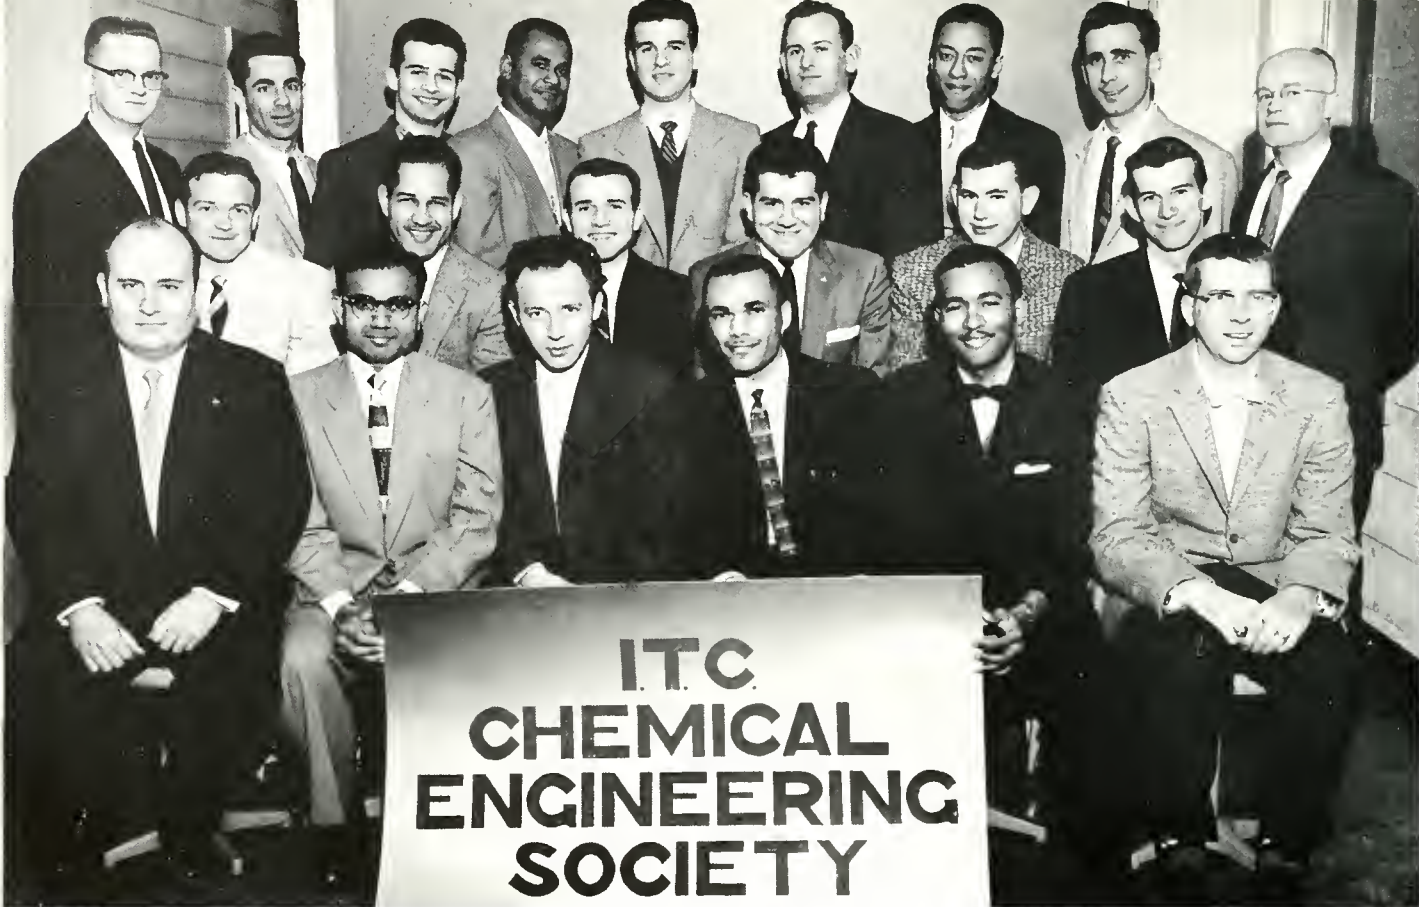

The student section of the Audio Engineering Society was organized to provide a medium for Tech students interested in Audio Engineering, either as a career or as a hobby, to exchange ideas and to learn of new developments in the field.

Members of the Student Section hold the grade of Student Member in the Audio Engineering Society and, as such, receive full benefit of membership in that organization.

Among the memories of college life, the Library remains a pleasant place associated with unhurried study and satisfying research, with soft-spoken words and gentle people, and with the smell of new magazines and old books.

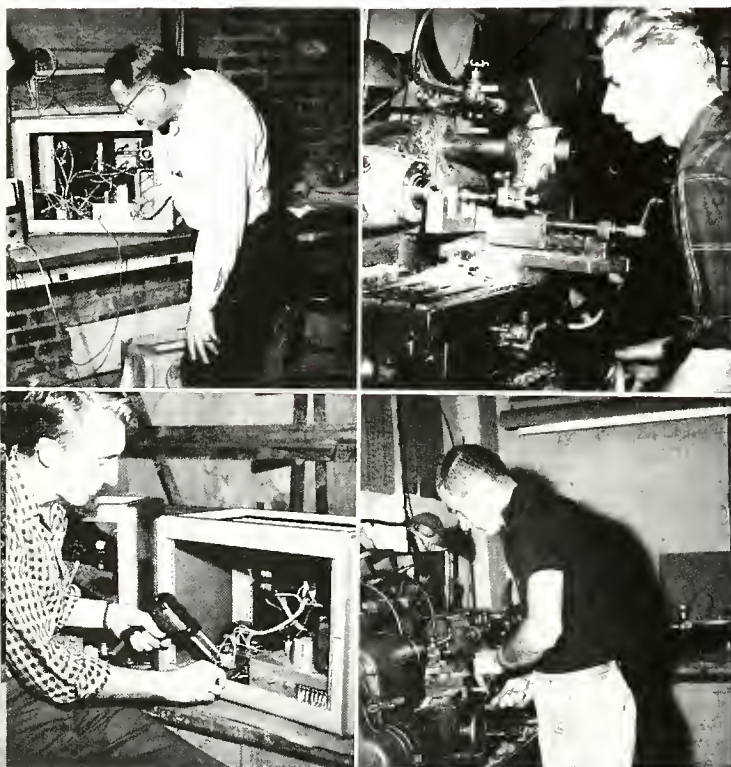

The Industrial Research, Development and Consulting Laboratories of Indiana Technical College were formed in 1950 with one purpose in mind—TO SERVE THE SPECIALIZED NEEDS OF INDUSTRY. This goal has remained constant while the facilities of the Department and the experience of the staff have grown steadily. The R & D Department has developed, designed, and produced many specialized items of equipment since its founding. Included in such equipment is a complete line of instruments used for testing the insulation qualities of magnet wire. Consulting services in a wide variety of engineering and scientific areas are much in demand—ranging from Mechanical and Electronic Engineering through Mathematics and Chemistry.

Since the founding of the Department in 1950, the operation has been on a non-profit basis. Research charges are based on three factors: The salaries of staff members assigned to the project, the actual cost of special equipment and services, and a fixed percentage of expenses for overhead. While the educational departments of Indiana Technical College serve the need of students seeking higher education, the Industrial Research Development and Consulting Department serves industry.

The R & D Laboratory is equipped with modern, practical scientific equipment. The Department is prepared to solve all types of industrial problems in the fields of research, engineering development, scientific investigation, engineering testing, design, specialized machining, plus the practical or theoretical application of higher mathematics and physical laws.

ALPHA GAMMA UPSILON

Beta Chapter of the Alpha Gamma Upsilon was accepted by Indiana Technical College in May, 1932—the first fraternity installed in the College.

The aim and purpose of Alpha Gamma Upsilon is summed up briefly in the following passage:

"This fraternity shall be a secret fraternal organization whose aim and purpose is to promote friendship, comradeship, and mutual understanding among the members; to develop character; to uphold the ideals of the College, and to foster the highest ideals of ethical conduct and good citizenship."

The purpose of this fraternity is to promote fellowship, social, scholastic, and recreational activities for the members in good standing. Membership is open to any student of Indiana Tech who is vouched for by a present member or who is registered on the Tyler's Record of a regularly constituted Blue Lodge within the Fort Wayne area.

Originally organized at Indiana Technical College in January, 1957, as Theta Mu Pi Fraternity, Beta Sigma Tau places special importance on three items: EQUALITY, UNDERSTANDING, and UNITY. As the first national fraternity of its kind, Beta Sigma Tau was founded in 1948 to level, not to raise, barriers among men, to provide the atmosphere for cooperation, and to daily practice the golden rule of brotherhood. A constructive pledge program with no hazing or degradation of any sort as well as special stress being placed on high scholarship as a requisite to a successful fraternity, are an integral part of the program. All members are accepted solely on their own individual worth, regardless of race, color, or creed.

It is the aim of Beta Sigma Tau to contribute to the community by helping to prepare better students and better citizens.

Iota Tau Kappa is an honorary engineering fraternity whose name symbolizes Industry (Iota), Thrift (Tau), and Knowledge (Kappa). The chief objective of this organization is to promote and to inculcate high ideas and attitudes of scholarship among the members of the student body of Indiana Technical College.

It was founded in the school year of 1910-1911 on the campus of Indiana University at Bloomington, Indiana. Its constitution is the law of an organization predicated upon, and dedicated to the principles of achievement through a democratic fraternity.

Preparation of the coat-of-arms was completed during the summer of 1911 by three of the founders who solicited the aid of a professor of Greek Art at the Indiana University together with that of a professor of Greek at Concordia University, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The second chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi was chartered in 1913.

The purpose of Kappa Sigma Kappa is to develop and enhance the personality of its members, to encourage good scholarship, broaden outside interests, promote mutual understanding and increase loyalty on the part of the fraternity brothers to Indiana Tech. Kappa Sigma Phi is a social fraternity of college men dedicated to the promotion of Fellowship, Scholarship, and Sportsmanship. The purpose of this fraternity is to bring together, in close bonds, the brothers of this fraternity; to assist one another while in school as well as in the business world. Kappa Sigma Phi fraternity has a standing membership of approximately forty active members each term. As the turnover in membership is usually large because of the number of members graduating each term, several pledges are accepted for initiation into the fraternity each term.

The Nu Chapter of the Phi Iota Alpha, Latin-American Fraternity, is situated at 1509 East Wayne Street in the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana. The chapter has membership representing eight Latin-American countries. The purposes of this fraternity are to unite its members fraternally, stimulate scientific study of the social and economic problems of Latin-America, and to serve as an ideological university wherein the student may find a favorable atmosphere for the development of his ideals. Phi Kappa offers a brotherhood fraternity for the Catholic students at Indiana Tech. Phi Kappa was the name selected by the charter group to serve as the outward sign of an organization that will endeavor to promote conduct consistent with good morals, create an atmosphere which will stimulate substantial intellectual progress, and to promote principles of fraternal loyalty in brotherhood.

The purpose of Sigma Phi Delta is to promote the advancement of the engineering profession; to foster the advancement of engineering education; to instill a greater spirit of cooperation among engineering students and organizations; to inculcate in its members the highest ideals of good citizenship, christian manhood, obedience to law, and to brotherhood; and to encourage excellence in scholarship.

The fraternity was founded at the University of Southern California in April, 1924. The membership totals nearly 4,000 engineers and engineering students.
